

Good publicity is the greatest force in business. You may run your mills and factories with steam or electricity, but the power that puts the product into the homes is publicity.

—Ray B. Simpson.

THE SALT LAKE HERALD

Established June 6, 1870.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1908

12 PAGES, Price Five Cents.

Modern advertising is generally considered to be a creative factor in the development of new trade, but volumes could be written on its efficiency in the elimination of waste in reorganizing an old business.—Martin Messinger.

SOUTH DAKOTA IN THE LIST OF BRYAN STATES

Nebraskan Acclaimed Everywhere Train Stopped and People Saw Him.

ROUSING RALLIES AND INTENSE ENTHUSIASM

PEOPLE AT MITCHELL URGED TO HANG UP TAFT LITHOGRAPHS ON OCCASION OF HIS VISIT.

Elk Point, S. D., Sept. 28.—Conducting one day's campaign in South Dakota today, William J. Bryan poured volleys of criticism into the Republican platform, Mr. Taft and President Roosevelt. He covered a good deal of ground in the state and tonight stopped in Sioux City, Ia., whence he will leave in the morning for Rock Island, Ill.

The expectation was to catch a night train for the Illinois city, but speeches along the line so tired the Democratic candidate that he could not make connection at Sioux City until morning. Mr. Bryan spoke a dozen times, his principal remarks being at Mitchell, Yankton, Vermillion and here. His fiery arguments today were on the trusts, guarantee of bank deposits and publicity of campaign contributions before the election. He inveighed against President Roosevelt because, as he said, of the president's failure to land any trust magnate in the penitentiary, and attacked Mr. Taft for dodging his platform.

Carried South Dakota in 1896.

The fact that South Dakota was carried for the Democratic national ticket in 1896 was referred to by Mr. Bryan, and he appealed for that support again on the ground that the Democratic party proposed real reform, while the Republican party could not be expected to do anything in that direction.

At every place visited by the Democratic candidate, or where his train stopped for a short time, he was met by large cheering crowds. A strong wintry wind from the north did not seem to affect either the candidate or his audience.

Thoughtful Bryan.

Observing at Mitchell that the windows of stores and houses were decorated with lithographs of himself, Mr. Bryan in the course of his remarks tonight and hang up in their stead pictures of Mr. Taft and thus show him the "same courtesy" that you have shown me.

He said he took it for granted that the compliment paid him was not personal, but that it was due to the fact that he was a candidate for the highest office in the gift of the people.

"Mr. Taft is a candidate for the same office," he said, "and one of us will be elected. As no one can tell yet with certainty which will be elected, you had better tack up both alike if you would be on the safe side."

Bryan at Sioux Falls.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Sept. 28.—William J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, opened the fourth week of his present tour by a renewal of his criticism of Mr. Taft and the Republican platform.

A big crowd waited at the station a long time for the belated train bringing the distinguished Nebraskan, and when at 8 o'clock he finally made his appearance they sent up a series of loud cheers. Mounting a truck near the station, Mr. Bryan got the attention of his audience.

"I am glad to be here again," he said, "because you in this great western state have been studying public questions for a long time, and you saw here before they did in some other part of the country the tendencies of our government and you tried as best you could to correct them."

He briefly discussed the issue, "Shall the people rule?" and taking up the subject of the trusts, publicity of campaign contributions and election of senators by direct vote, denounced the Republicans, and more particularly Mr. Taft, on their attitude on these questions.

Real Western Reception.

Montrose, S. D., Sept. 28.—A truly western reception was accorded William J. Bryan upon his arrival here today en route to large crowds of people gathered and greeted him with cheers and cowboy whoops. In a brief speech he thanked his hearers for the vote they gave him in his two previous campaigns, but said the Democratic party was more entitled today to the vote, "because," he said, "the abuses complained of have not been remedied. They are worse now than ever, and

Continued on Page 2.

HEARST PARTY VISITING IN SALT LAKE

Real, Live Presidential Candidate Delivers Address at Salt Palace.

INDEPENDENCE PARTY HAS ONLY REAL DOPE

HISGEN HAPPY OVER EXPOSE OF FORAKER AND HASKELL—SCORES STANDARD OIL.

Amid scenes of stirring enthusiasm, Thomas L. Hisgen, the Independence party candidate for president, visited Salt Lake last night, expounded the principles of the Hearst party in a clearcut, forceful speech, and received the plaudits of a throng of admirers and auditors.

Mr. Hisgen's visit was remarkable for three reasons: It marked the first stump speech that has been delivered in the far west by any of the big candidates, it marked the first invasion of Utah by any of the prominent eastern spellbinders, and it was the first injection of Hearstism into the system of Utah voters.

That the Independence party has obtained a firm foothold in Utah was the confident opinion expressed by the Hearst leaders after last night's rally. They were highly pleased with the reception accorded Hisgen, and the evident impression which his appeal for "independence in politics" made.

Neither of the two old parties was pleased with the presence of the new candidate. They were raked over and aft. The atmosphere was illumined by charges of graft, corruption and bossism against both Democratic and Republican parties, and Mr. Hisgen tendered his usual respects to the Standard Oil company in his own inimitable style.

Arrival in Salt Lake.

The Hisgen party arrived in Salt Lake at 6:30 last night, tired and travel-stained after a two days and nights' direct ride from Kansas City. They left there at 9:40 Saturday night over the Union Pacific. They were given a warm welcome when they stepped from the train and Mr. Hisgen received another ovation in the Wilson hotel.

The party included Thomas L. Hisgen, the presidential candidate; George C. Hisgen of West Springfield, Mass., his brother; Joseph R. Buchanan of New York, the veteran labor leader and authority on labor matters; and Clement L. Pollock of Boston, one of the most noted and gifted orators in the east. F. R. E. Woodward, editor and publisher of the Western "Home-Maker" of Chicago, arrived in advance to herald their coming.

Despite the counter attraction, the "American" party county convention, which was the magnet for many Salt Lake politicians and their henchmen, the Hisgen rally in the Salt Palace was a big success. The auditorium was well filled with citizens and the speeches of both Mr. Hisgen and Mr. Buchanan were interrupted by frequent bursts of applause.

Mr. Hisgen strode on the platform at 8:30, and his appearance was the signal for a storm of hand-clapping and cheers. He was introduced by F. J. Johnson, of Birmingham, national committeeman of the Independence party from Utah, as the "most stern and bitter foe of the Standard Oil company in this nation."

Mr. Hisgen Speaks.

Mr. Hisgen's voice was in fine condition, and he immediately plunged into a tirade against the Standard Oil company. He also paid his respects to Senator Foraker, Dupont and Governor Haskell, and then turned to the down-and-out club by Mr. Hearst, so he stated.

Mr. Hisgen's speech, in part, is as follows:

"I am not a public speaker and make no pretense of being an orator. I always try to take my audience into my confidence at the start, and that is why I am starting out by telling you the absolute truth. I am doing what I can in a plain and thoroughly sincere way to advocate the principles which constitute the platform of the Independence party."

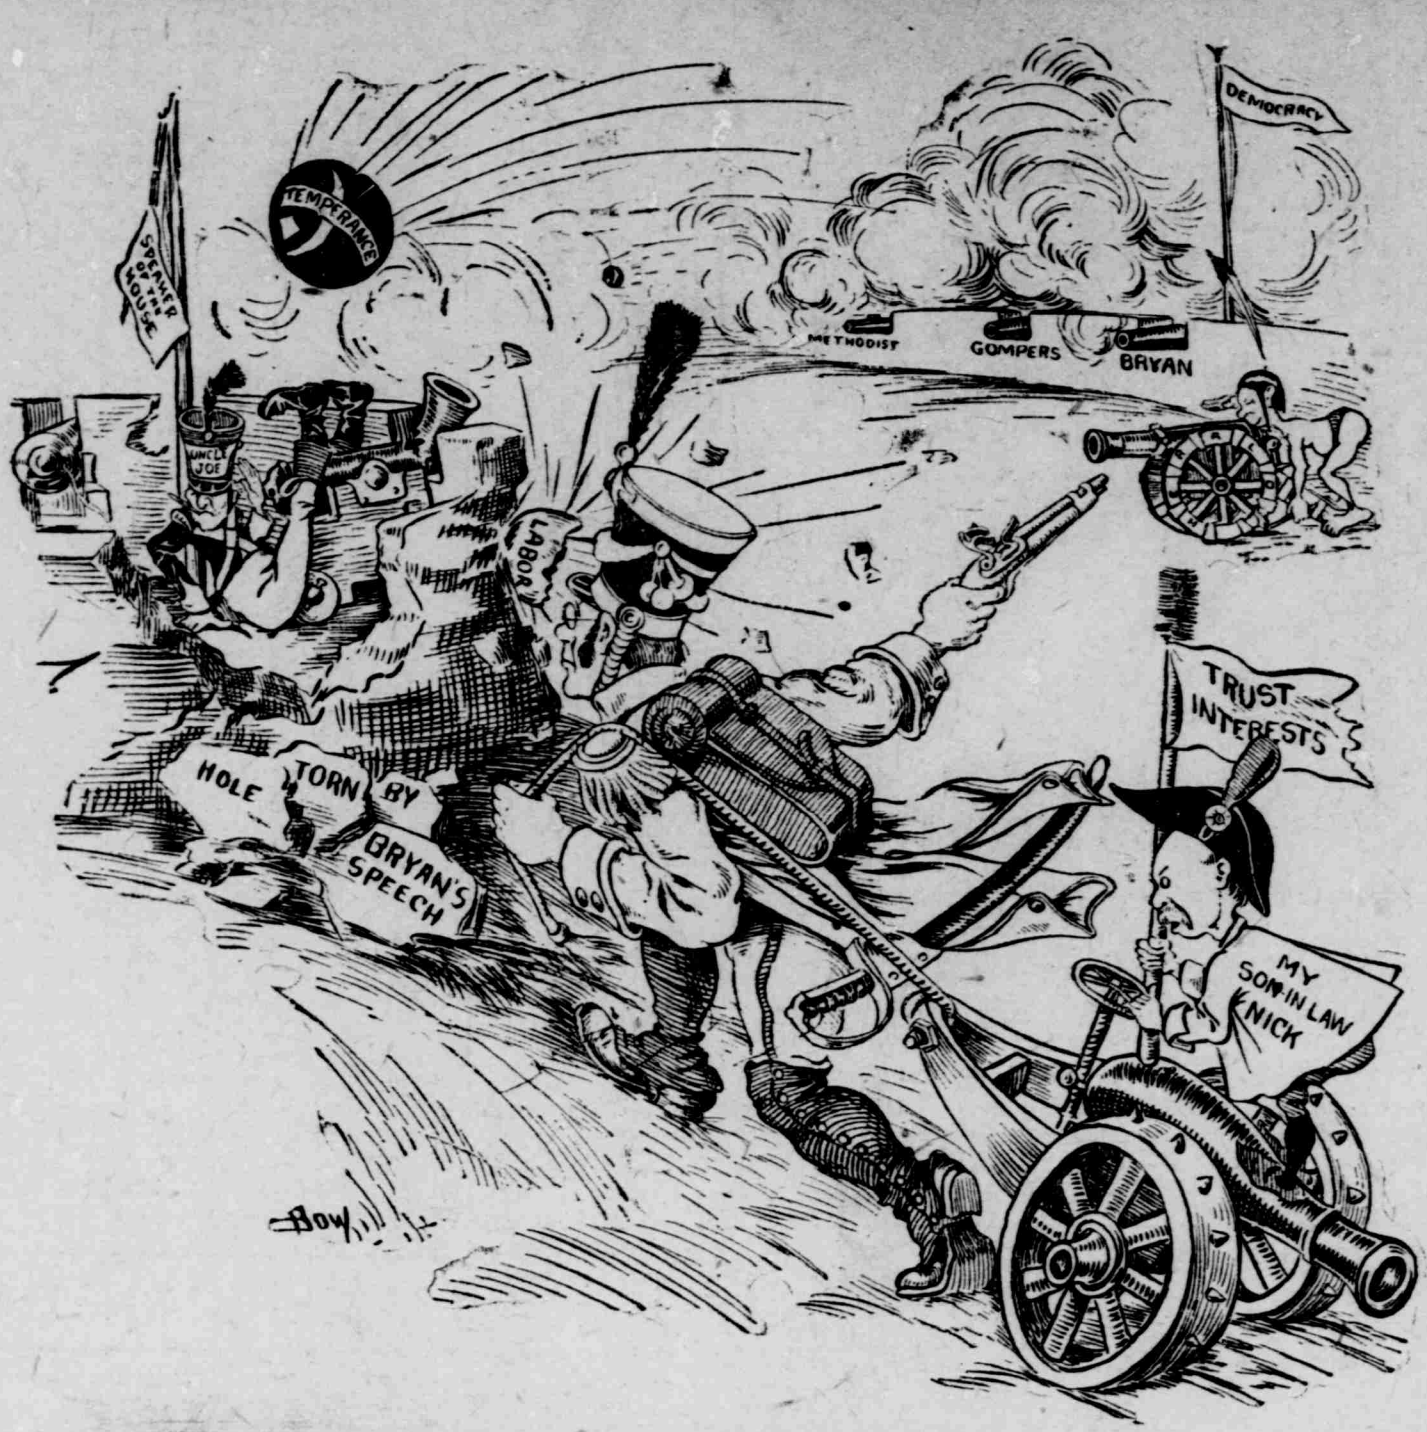

"Mr. John Temple Graves, the candidate of the Independence party for vice president, who will speak here on next Friday night, is a much abler orator and will clearly elucidate our party principles."

"My friends, the two old political parties are abroad in the land asking you for your votes. Mr. Taft and his cohorts are singing the praises of the grand old Republican party—the party of the trusts and corporations and the party which believes implicitly that you can fool enough of the people all the time to keep it in power."

"This is the party that made the trusts through unjust tax discrimination, bank discrimination and railroad discrimination. This is the party that goes to the same date up to the close of the campaign will be published daily."

He also said that he would obey Mr. Bryan's instructions in refusing contributions from favor-seeking trusts and corporations, and that no contribution would be accepted from a person who expected favors in return.

Continued on Page 3.

Trusty Jim to the Rescue of Uncle J. e.

KNIGHTING ADDRESS TO DEMOCRATS

State Committee Issues Statement to People of Utah and Bids Them Gird on Their Armor and Be of Good Cheer.

The Democratic state committee and candidates, at a meeting held in the office of Chairman Martineau yesterday afternoon, by unanimous vote adopted the following address to the people of this state as the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

The address was adopted by the party's candidate for governor one of the state's foremost citizens, and the man of the hour, Jesse Knight of Provo.

of the time when the people of your state, without regard to party, would have been delighted to have honored and trusted you with the highest office within their gift, and at a time and under circumstances that tried men's souls.

High Purpose of Democratic Party.

We said above that the Knight incident was not dwelt upon for the purpose of ending in censure of that gentleman. But it is dwelt upon for the purpose of making apparent the chief desire of the Democratic party of Utah. That purpose is not merely party success, only as that success shall eventuate in terminating the political destruction of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime factors in bringing Mr. Knight before the convention to receive the nomination. Such conduct merits highest commendation.

But, fellow Democrats, a situation confronts us, and a difficult one. A new candidate must be found; and discouragement must be put away. For may of the people are looking to the party of our people and ending those conditions born of factional Republican strife, alike shameful and injurious to our state. This was manifested by the earnestness with which the party sought for and found a candidate upon whom all the people could unite. It was also manifested in the willingness—nay, the cheerfulness, with which prominent Democrats who desired the nomination put aside their own ambition and became the prime